Cheryl Kassner Wins National Award as One of the Top Women in Tech

President of Technolink of the Rockies Receives Award Amongst Tech Leaders.

ENGLEWOOD, CO — April 2019 — Technolink of the Rockies, a leading managed technology services provider (MTSP), announced today that Cheryl Kassner, President, has been recognized at a national convention for being one of the top women in tech. Kassner received the “Women in Technology” award at the Technology Assurance Group (TAG) 19th Annual Convention in Orlando, Florida. The event took place on April 7-10 at the Rosen Plaza and was filled with dozens of North America’s top MTSPs. Kassner was celebrated for her role as a leader in the community and was acknowledged for building a very successful company in a field that is predominantly comprised of men. The awarding organization, TAG, is an international organization of independently-owned MTSPs who collectively represent nearly $350M in products and services.

Kassner’s approach to leadership is evident in her philosophy towards achievement. “It was definitely satisfying for our company to be acknowledged among such a talented group of CEOs but this award doesn’t just belong to me, it belongs to our entire team,” states

Kassner. “One of the things I’m proudest of is the culture that we’ve built at Technolink. We’ve taken a more feminine approach to getting things done and it’s very satisfying to see our company excelling. I feel so grateful to work with a team like ours and we expect to keep this momentum going for years to come.”

One of pillars of Technolink of the Rockies’s unique approach to business is that they are the only provider that protects their customers from the two risks of technology: obsolescence and cost. As their customers’ trusted technology advisor, they’ve earned their position as the market leader through proven products and services.

Brian Suerth, President of TAG has had a front-row view of Technolink’s growth over the years and had some comments to add about Kassner’s role within the business community. “Cheryl has always been so talented and we were so happy to present her with this well-deserved award. We’re thrilled that our other Members are fortunate enough to be around her, so that they can learn from her unique perspective and find new solutions for their customers. It’s no secret that our industry is predominantly made up of men, and we are thrilled to have another role model within our group, who just so happens to be a woman. As a father of two daughters, it’s such a privilege to see role models like her, setting such a strong example for our future generations.”
